Sunrise Corner – Economic Development

Results: Introducing the Shared Legacy Partnership

After three years of consultation and planning, we are thrilled to officially announce the Shared Legacy Partnership. Our goal is to help advance understanding of the wonder of Manitoba's Tall Grass Prairie Natural Area, its relationship with agriculture, and the natural heritage that benefits all residents.

This is a cooperative working group led by the Rural Municipality of Stuartburn and The Nature Conservancy of Canada (NCC) along with partners Sunrise Corner Economic Development and Province of Manitoba. We have three key areas of focus:

- Nature: creating and delivering a strategy for sharing our unique nature in the RM of Stuartburn with future generations.
- Culture: engaging with local producers, landowners, Stuartburn residents, and Indigenous communities to guide our direction.
- Economy: pursuing "win-win" solutions that work for the ecosystem, landowners, residents, our economy, and communities.

A hidden gem centered right here in Sunrise Corner, the Tall Grass Prairie Natural Area covers 445,628 hectares and supports one of the largest and last remaining tall-grass prairie landscapes in North America. It forms the northern end of an international conservation corridor comprised of protected and managed prairies, wetlands, forests and streams within a working landscape that includes conservation, agriculture and eco-tourism. The tall-grass prairie is home to 28 listed Canadian species at risk (SAR), such as the monarch butterfly, the globally rare Poweshiek skipperling butterfly, and the Western prairie fringed orchid. Many of these species depend on the tall-grass prairie for their very survival.

Shared Legacy Partnership invites you to learn more about the tall-grass prairie and the species at risk that call it home. We will be participating in Vita Canada Day festivities on July 1st, with a float in the parade and a booth at the vendor market to answer questions. We will also be offering two guided tours at NCC's Agassiz Trail west of Vita to view the spectacular western prairie fringed orchid that will be in full bloom at that time; it's the only place you can see these unique perennials in Canada. Check out our website www.sharedlegacymb.ca and Facebook page www.facebook.com/sharedlegacymb for details. For more details, contact Norm Gregoire at info@sharedlegacy.ca or 204-408-6166.

In the meantime, if you have a business venture or tourism idea related to our unique tall-grass prairie you'd like to discuss, contact me to learn about the business-building support and training that is currently available.

SPECIES AT RISK

Information Available for the Stewardship Credit Pilot Program

Hello, RM of Stuartburn! By now, you have hopefully heard of the Stewardship Credit Pilot Program (SCPP), but you may still have some questions about how the program is run. If you would like any more information or are just curious, please drop by the Shared Legacy booth during the Vita Canada Day celebrations on July 1st.

Over the last two years, the SCPP has brought together community residents, the RM of Stuartburn and the Nature Conservancy of Canada (NCC) to conserve and maintain the remaining tall-grass prairie for future generations to enjoy. We are excited to announce that the program has been extended for another three years and we are looking for more participants to join the program!

As part of SCPP, participants receive annual payments based on the quality and quantity of their prairie. Participants are encouraged to use their expertise and experience, supported by the RM of Stuartburn and NCC, if requested, to implement management that works best for both their own goals, and the habitats and species on their property. Examples of management can include grazing, invasive species, and woody encroachment control, and more. Eligible management activities may also be supported by the cost-shared component of the program.

If you think you have native prairie and reside within the program boundary (RM of Stuartburn and surrounding area), we would love to hear from you!

For an application, or to learn more about the program, please contact Norm Gregoire at info@sharedlegacymb.ca or 204-408-6166.

Eligibility for the program will be determined by an initial site visit.
